
David Cotterrell: Adhocracy - 07.08.11

Date: 7th August 2011

David will be joining a panel of creative thinkers, social innovators, future-shapers, dilettantes and their admirers to tattle-tale on how resistance and entrepreneurship might be getting it together.

The Panel Discussion on 'Can-do: from DIY to Social Entrepreneurship' will include Kate Bull (co-founder of The Peoples Supermarket in Holborn, London), Dr Lida Hujic (strategist advising market leader brands), Lois Keidan (co founder and Director of the Live Art Development Agency London), Amy Spencer (author of DIY: The Rise of Lo-Fi Culture and The Crafter Culture Handbook) & John Powles (Glasgow Caledonian University for 25 years, including 15 years managing the University's collections of left wing political materials).

This event is part of Adhocracy- a weekend-long, mini-festival of creative thought and activity celebrating D.I.Y. cultures, collection action, creativity and can-do: then and now.

Meet influential peace-makers, queer protesters, climate changers, up-cyclers, craftivists, artists, engineers, community orchards planters, independent publishers, pop-up retailers, bee-keepers, instrument makers, trend-setters, creative collectives, localists and social entrepreneurs.

Adhocracy is convened by New Work Network

Event Details:

Full schedule here

Time and Date:

Sunday 7th August, 4-6 pm

Venue:

Rich Mix
35-47 Bethnal Green Road
London
E1 6LA

Tickets:

<http://adhocracy.info/booktickets>

Event Publicity Credit: New Work Network (2011)